Three alternatives to be eyed

Hancock redistricting proposals under study

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors early next month is expected to choose a redistricting plan to equalize population in the county's five districts.

Gulf Regional Planning Commission in Gulfport is now preparing three plans for the supervisors' consideration designed to redistribute population as well as road, maintenance and municipal area responsibilities among Hancock's five districts.

The supervisors are expected to secretly review the three district line alternatives to suggest changes, and later publicly approve a plan to submit for state approval.

Walter Cox of Bay St. Louis, board attorney, explained at a supervisors' meeting Monday that new district lines should be established before conducting a countywide election or the results are subject to challenge.

The next county election, including supervisors, is scheduled in two years. Countywide redistricting last occurred after the 1970 census, but 1980 census figures coupled with a recent study indicate a district population inequity.

Jeff Taylor of Biloxi, GRPC's Hancock planning coordinator, Tuesday said Hoyt Holland Jr. and Associates of Jackson conducted a study, based on recent census figures, which found unequal population distributions in all five districts.

The planning coordinator noted that population shifts normally occur within a 10-year period necessitating redistricting at least every decade.

Census figures list the county's population at 24,625.

Taylor said the Hancock study found three districts with low share of residents and the remaining two with a high population densities.

Populations are high in Districts Four and Five, the study shows, with District One, Two and Three populations below an equitable level.

"Each district ideally should have a population just under 5,000," Taylor continued.

The study lists:

- District One with 4,366 people which is 17.73 percent of the county's residents and 11.33 percent less than an equal population share;
- District Two with 4,213 people which is 17.11 percent of the county's residents and 14.46 percent less than an equal population share;
- District Three with 4,643 people which is 18.85 percent of the county's residents and 5.73 percent less than an equal population share;
- District Four with 5,238 people

Animal shelter slated for end of September

By BRENT MACEY
Although materials to begin construction of a Bay-Waveland Animal Shelter have been transported to a site at the Bay St. Louis oxidation pond, actual construction is not scheduled until late September or early October of this year.

C.J. Dumestre, chairman of the Hancock County Animal Control Commission, said problems securing the site forced schedule changes with the U.S. Navy Seabees in Gulfport who had initially planned to construct the building last fall at the Hancock County Fairgrounds.

Complaints from residents in the area about the location of the site forced the commission to seek a new site, Dumestre said.

The delay in obtaining the site and the different type of construction involved with building the shelter at the present location caused the Seabees to reschedule and delay the starting date, Dumestre said.

Dumestre said the former site at the Fairgrounds was flat and the seabees would have only had to construct the building on a cement slab.

The new site, however, is located on an elevated oxidation pond levee which slopes into swampland owned by the U.S. Railroad.

A bulldozer will have to be used to level the site, he said.

Hancock budget near $5 million

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is expected to approve a budget for the fiscal year beginning in October. The budget is estimated to be near $5 million.

The board is expected to consider a proposal for a new tax rate. The current rate is 1.5 percent, but the board is considering a rate of 1.75 percent.

The board is also expected to consider a proposal for a new millage rate. The current rate is 10 mills, but the board is considering a rate of 12 mills.

The board is also expected to consider a proposal for a new millage rate. The current rate is 10 mills, but the board is considering a rate of 12 mills.

Clermont Harbor faces water rate increase

By BRENT MACEY

Tripling current water rates for some 300 customers connected to a Clermont Harbor waterworks system seems "very likely" in the near future, according to Lynn Havens, southern district commissioner on the State Public Service Commission.

Havens said Tuesday he will be in St. Ann's Church Saturday at 10 a.m. in Clermont Harbor to discuss a "likely" increase to about $9.50 per month with residents there.

Currently customers are paying $40 a year or approximately $3.33 per month.

"It's hard to say the rates will triple, but $9.50 is still below the statewide average," Havens said.

"When you come down to the bottom line people have to realize there is no more $3 a month water rate."

A requested rate increase to $18 by Johnson Utility Company followed the sale and transfer of the Clermont Waterworks System from Richard Planchard to Glen Johnson, owner of Johnson Utility Company, Havens said.

The system, which services some 300 residents in Clermont Harbor, was sold to Johnson for $80,000, who also took over a $94,000 Small Business Administration loan which Planchard had incurred following Hurricane Camille.

Havens said that a bank had threatened to foreclose on the SBA-backed loan to Planchard, who was 28 payments in arrears.

In addition, Johnson agreed to spend $52,000 for installation of water meters, $12,000 for chlorinating the system, and $4,500 for construction of chain link fences around water wells.

The PSC approved that sale.

Havens said the decision on the rate increase request will be based on consideration of the amount of repairs required, operation of the system, and the appraised value of the system to determine a fair rate of return.

He said that rate of return has been set at 9.7 percent. The PSC is required by law to approve rate increases which will not exceed that amount, he said.

Havens said some 34 leaks were discovered by Johnson Utility Company when a pressure test was applied to the system.

Johnson has already spent some $3,000 on the system in repairs, Havens said.

The cost of installing water meters and cost of the chain-link fence will not be considered when determining the rate increase, Havens added.

"We only consider parts of the plant which are in service," he said.

However, he said the State Board of Health and the PSC require the system withstand pressures up to 40 pounds per square inch and the Board of Health also requires the system be chlorinated.

Those costs will be considered in determining if a rate increase is necessary, he said.

Currently the system is assessed at $79,000 but Havens said that figure is not the market value and that figure will not be considered.

Instead, engineers for the PSC are currently appraising and auditing the system to determine a fair rate of return.

Havens could not give a dollar figure for what the PSC now considers the value of the system.

He said the auditing system was a "mess" when Johnson bought the system.

Our auditors could only verify 20 percent of the former owner's (Planchard's) figures," Havens said.

There was virtually no bookkeeping procedure," he said, and stated it could not be determined if Planchard ever made money from the system.

William Garcia, representative for the Clermont Harbor Civic Association, is opposed to the rate increase.

A petition in Garcia's Grocery Store has been signed by some 175 citizens also protesting the increase.

Garcia attended the meeting in Jackson when the sale and transfer of the system was approved by the PSC and the rate increase discussed.

During a telephone interview Tuesday, he disagreed the system is in need of extensive repairs and also objected to the introduction of chlorination to the system.

He described Johnson's testimony at the public hearing in Jackson as "ridiculous."

"He didn't have any figures or proof to show anything," Garcia said.

Garcia said Johnson could show no proof that there actually were any leaks in the pipe.

Proof of what $3,000 in repairs could also not be shown, Garcia said.

He added, nobody in the community saw any workmen on the lines in the area.

Garcia said Johnson testified some $400 to $450 monthly was spent for operation of the system.

Garcia said that money came from some $1,000 which the system earned through customer payments.

Garcia said said another $400 should have been paid to the SBA.

"Since the loan wasn't being paid I tried to find out what was happening to the money," he said.

"I never could," he added.

"What the man is doing is taking a system which is making money, putting a quarter of a million dollars in it so he is losing money, and then asking for a rate increase," Garcia said.

"It's ridiculous."

Garcia said he feared Johnson would continue to put money into the system and then return to the PSC "again and again" until the rates increased to $35 a month.

He recommended the citizens of Clermont Harbor sue Johnson, and the PSC if a rate increase is approved.

Another alternative would be to have citizens pay the cost for drilling artesian wells to by-pass the system, he said.

If during the year, a family member becomes unemployed or if the family's size or income changes, the family should contact the school.

Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for additional benefits, if the family income falls at or below the levels shown.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, or national origin, school officials assured.

Each school and principal's office has a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Following are the income scales used by Hancock County and Bay St. Louis School Districts to determine eligibility for free and reduced price meals for the 1981-1982 school year.

District Five with 1,100 people which is 25.04 percent of the county's residents, and 25.18 percent greater than an equal population share.

Taylor speculated District Five's high population may be a result of Diamondhead Community growth.

He said lines will be placed so each district has no more than a seven percent population variance.

"We will formulate these district line plans very objectively, but I do not anticipate any drastic changes in district lines," Taylor stated.

Regarding voting precincts within county districts, the board adopted "meets and bounds" descriptions of the areas as requested by the State Joint Reapportionment Commission.

The state commission recently requested the precinct descriptions to conduct a congressional redistricting project.

Hancock is located in the Fifth Congressional District.

Lawrence Seal of Poyune, county engineer, "rewrote" the precinct descriptions based on a document found by A. A. (Dolph) Kellar and GRPC maps.

Some 10 years ago the legislature required all counties to submit these descriptions, but Hancock officials never submitted the information.

Seal reported, "Some (precinct descriptions) were impossible to plot and some were subject to interpretation—so I just rewrote all of them."

Gov. asked if generally accepted precinct lines coincided with the legal descriptions.

Seal replied that in one or two places there were some changes. The most descriptions (based on the documents Kellar discovered) were altered to eliminate overlapping precincts.

But he revealed some District One voters were voting at the wrong precincts.

Agnes suggested Henry Ode, Jr., registrar and circuit clerk, notify voters and those residents found voting in the wrong precinct.

Gov. asked Seal if he would like to see the maps.

Documents not always necessary in VA claims

The Veterans Administration urges veterans and their dependents not to let lost documents prevent them from applying for VA benefits. "Some veterans who can't locate birth or marriage certificates don't apply for benefits because they believe these documents are essential," said Mike Ladner, Hancock veterans service officer.

VA accepts certified statements from applicants in instances where documents needed to establish eligibility for benefits are lost, he said.

In the case of a marriage, the official said, this policy applies only to the first marriage for each partner, and there must be no contradictory information on file with the agency.

In years past, VA required formal documentation to support claims for compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows and orphaned children.

More recently, however, the agency has accepted a certified statement regarding the birth of a child or as proof of age and relationship in disability cases.

Veterans or dependents with questions about eligibility for benefits are urged to contact the nearest VA regional office or a representative of one of the national veterans organizations.

Bits 'n pieces

The residents of Hancock and Harrison Counties have available in the estimation of many, a good fishing pier in the use of the US-90 bridge.

There are a few folks who would like to see this practice of fishing be stopped on the bridge. We are talking about those persons, especially the ones throwing nets off the bridge and not throwing the trash fish overboard.

A drive over the bridge Monday revealed several piles of dead pogeys from the night before, and we know they do not bite on lines. We know there are some net fishermen who take the time to throw all the trash fish over, but there are those who are too lazy.

We urge everyone to respect the use of the bridge, throw your trash fish over and if you see some person not doing this, remind them there is a fine for this violation and it could possibly cause the ban of fishing off the Bay bridge.

Greg Smith, Buccaneer State Park manager is all smiles these days since he found out the news of the $500,000 to be spent on the expansion of camping facilities at the local facility.

It seems there was a need for more camp sites after the first week of operation of the park in Waveland.

We had a picnic there Monday evening of this week and really enjoyed the wonderful facilities.

Everyone who sees the park with the Wave Pool and all facilities marvel at how nice a place we have in our county.

Smith is doing a fine job at Buccaneer and he and his staff should all be commended for their dedication to their work.

We were talking to one of our friends early this week who stated that our suggestion of the possibility of using a mule train down the beach is becoming more and more plausible as the road continues to deteriorate.

They reported they took a ride down Beach Boulevard this past weekend and could not believe the condition it is now in and wonder when is it going to be repaired.

We wish we knew too!

It was good news for owners of large boats in Hancock County receiving permission from the National Space Technology Laboratories to moor during hurricanes.

The Gulf Coast Fishermen's Association has been working on this for some time and we are glad for it coming into being. NSTL has probably the safest harbor around for mooring boats during a hurricane. We know that in the past fishermen have run their boats up the river and kept their fingers crossed that a tree would not topple on their boat or that it would be sunk by the winds.

There are some basic rules to be followed by the fishermen when mooring their boats and we feel they are necessary.

We hope the harbor will never have to be used for a hurricane, but is good to know it is available for the local fishermen.

Mike Hallford, controller at Hancock General Hospital received his CPA rating from the state last week.

Mike has his master's degree in accounting from the University of Alabama, and we know he is another young person in our area who has worked hard, very hard in becoming a CPA.

We wish to add Mike to our list of those we have congratulated because of their achievements.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

Two years ago we launched a very successful advertising program based on research data and spot checking of proposed approaches. The problem is it doesn't work anymore. What Should We Do?

Dear WSWD: One of the few constants you can depend on in the marketplace is that change is inevitable.

What worked in the past may work in the future, but there may be some lapses in between. For example, many promotions are now in the nostalgia genre—they are revivals of old promotions.

Many in the audience will not have seen the theme before, and the old theme promotion will bring memories for the older prospects.

But the reveals only work because they are brought back. Had they been around the entire time, they would have been old and boring.

Many in the audience will not have seen the theme before, and the old theme promotion will bring memories for the older prospects.

But the reveals only work because they are brought back. Had they been around the entire time, they would have been old and boring.

Many in the audience will not have seen the theme before, and the old theme promotion will bring memories for the older prospects.

Unfortunately there is some small merit to their approach. Change and newness do attract attention and motivate. But on occasion it may be too costly and short-lived to justify the cost.

An old classic in job motivation called the Hawthorne experiment studied the result of changing working conditions on employee production.

After a series of experiments it was found that in most cases the change was not nearly so important as the fact that attention was being paid to the workers.

So, in effect, the attention was what caused the increase in productivity. This same premise seems to work in selling.

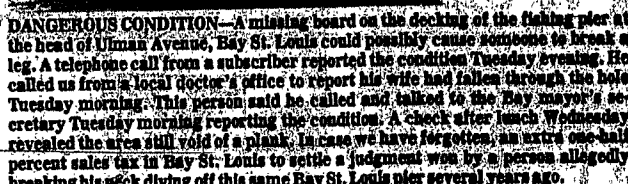

Many must pay attention to the salesmen by overlooking your own needs.

Many must pay attention to the salesmen by overlooking your own needs.

Many must pay attention to the salesmen by overlooking your own needs.

DANGEROUS CONDITION—A missing board on the decking of the fishing pier at the head of Ulman Avenue, Bay St. Louis could possibly cause someone to break a leg. A telephone call from a subscriber reported the condition Tuesday evening. He called us from a local doctor's office to report his wife had fallen through the hole Tuesday morning. This person said he called and talked to the Bay mayor's secretary Tuesday morning reporting the condition. A check after lunch Wednesday revealed the area still void of a plank. In case we have forgotten, an extra one-half percent sales tax in Bay St. Louis to settle a judgment won by a person allegedly breaking his neck diving off this same Bay St. Louis pier several years ago.

ROTTEN STEP—Apparently the condition of the steps leading down to the fishing pier at the head of Ulman Avenue in Bay St. Louis has not been checked. We found this condition of a step falling into pieces Tuesday. A visit Wednesday revealed that someone apparently pulled the rest of it apart. We know people have little regard for public property, but the board photographed here is simply rotten. We did note several lower railings and bench back rests on the pier have been broken out.

Parallels drawn between dangerous surf hole, movie 'Jaws'

8-7-81
Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,

Just as the lurking danger of a great white shark threatened the swimmers of the small town in the movie Jaws, the equally terrifying Deep Hole still lurks just off our beaches waiting to claim its next victim.

As in the movie "Jaws" our mayor is doing everything he can to put an end to the continuing string of victims the deep hole has claimed.

Yet just as the mayor of the town in the movie, our mayor can not do it all by himself.

It seems as though after every drowning we all get upset and voice our complaints to each other and the local newspaper.

Given time, we all seem to forget until it happens again, leaving our mayor to worry with the problem alone.

I believe it is our responsibility to see that the danger of the deep hole is a single person residing in this area and continue to do so until the inch of that deadly cavity is filled.

How many people in this area have written their congressman, governor or the corps of engineers?

I have and I challenge every person in the area to write these people and continue to do so until the problem is completely resolved instead of settling for a promise of action as we have in the past.

The cost of an 18 cents stamp and five minutes of your time is more than worth the possible loss of another life.

If we don't take a firm, constant stand on this, we ourselves may be responsible the next time, and there is always the chance that the life you save may be your own or that of a loved one.

Below I have provided the name and addresses of the people you should write.

After 15 years and 25 deaths, its time we did something. Let's do it today.

Citizen concern urged to supplement efforts of police

Re: Victim of Sidewalk Shenanigans

Dear Editor:

This is a reply in reference to a letter in Thursday's paper. I agree that the crime rate is on the move upward in Bay St. Louis just as it is everywhere else in the country.

It is too often the case that people such as these complain but do not stand behind their complaints with the action necessary to stop this kind of thing.

If the people being harassed would stop talking about it and report these things to the police along with a legal complaint, so that these juveniles or "such persons" would be fined or punished; maybe then the others would think twice before harassing the public.

Then again to just file a complaint is not always enough, you must press charges when the guilty person is found, otherwise why bother to file the complaint. Too many times the victim gives in to the offender and feels sorry for them because they are young or a friend's child, etc. and all is forgotten — until the next time!

So long as people talk and not act this type of thing is going to continue. If you feel that the authorities are not always there when needed then form a neighborhood watch.

This way you will have witnesses; and I'm sure that these people do not wish to be observed by a large number of noisy neighbors.

Crime has been around for a long time and will continue, all we can do is minimize it.

No town or city, large or small is "crime free". It's up to the public to help the authorities. They can't do it without the public. They too are only people just like you.

lower spine and legs. Pain is my constant companion so I walk kinda funny.

Emphysema and Asthmatic Bronchitis reduce my breathing capacity to less than thirty percent of normal. Without medication I can't breathe. I won't die without medication...right away. But I shall surely die. And the process will be like the red-tape of State Agencies, slow and agonizing.

Strangely, though rated totally disabled and unemployable for the last eleven years, in thirty-five years I have not once been treated in a VA hospital for either of my VA rated diseases.

I had grounds for complaint: But — how could I have been prepared for the spectacle of eighty-year-old couples, who had paid into "The System" for forty years, begging a machine to show them mercy?

This was the promised "Fair Hearing." On July 14, last, all of the applicants were paraded under your "Fair Hearing Room" sign into Youth Court. (I remember thinking that this is exactly the way bums, picked up by the police over the weekend, are herded into City Court every Monday morning.)

Your hired help set up a cheap little cassette player-recorder and read a document we had all received in the mail. The lady also advised, "We are not here to answer questions. Just make your statement."

Mister Simmons. The very young and the very old are so close to God. Indeed, the beautiful, the magnificent, the revered ones should have been washed in pride and dignity. They were, instead, reduced to begging mercy of a machine. They were degraded by having to do so in public. Worse, they were performing for your toe-tapping, "Not here to answer questions," menials who sat impassively, impatiently waiting for this public agony to pass.

I think I know now how I would feel were I to witness the Clergy desecrate a church or soldiers burn their flag.

Some of the elderly, even needed someone to assist them in making their statement. Mister Simmons, I do not. And I possess the one weapon feared by all burglars and thieves, light and noise in the form of my typewriter.

You have rung the bell. You have closed the book. But, before you extinguish the candle, let's balance that book. For every one you drop from the Medicaid rolls, reduce your administrative staff accordingly. You are, "Only doing a job." As the job becomes smaller, make a voluntary salary cut. When the job is no longer attractive — when it becomes unprofitable to minister to the poor...QUIT!

When the poor, the sick and the unemployed are no longer big business for the political opportunists, you SHALL quit. There is just an outside chance you will be replaced by someone guided by some measure of compassion.

In India I saw the buffalo carts filled with the dead, collected from Calcutta's streets, making their way to the burning ghats on the Hoogly River. Is this the way you're taking us, Mister Simmons?

Sincerely,
but no longer yours

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Please allow me to share information that could be important to some of your Hancock and Harrison County subscribers.

Another local newspaper, an afternoon edition, published a public notice this week regarding a proposed 35 percent increase for Diamondhead Utilities (they install and service water and sewage lines to residents and commercial establishments at Diamondhead).

No consumers were notified by that company — a courtesy that should have been extended to us.

The notice advised that a hearing is scheduled in Jackson Tuesday, Aug. 25 at 10 a.m. in the Public Service Commission's offices, the Walter Biller Building across from the State Capitol.

Anyone wishing to appear should either attend in person and be heard, or voice information in writing by card, letter or telegram, or by phone to Mr. Bill Summers, Administration Assistant to Lynn Havens, Representative Southern District of the Public Service Commission, telephone 1-354-7242.

I am protesting an 85 percent increase without supporting evidence that it is warranted, and I hope 1,000 others will do the same.

Newspapers remain top source of shopping information, news

When Mississippians want information on where to shop for goods, they go to their newspapers, says a University of Mississippi journalism professor.

Newspapers far outdistance other media — television, radio and direct mail flyers — as the source for shopping information, said Dr. John W. Windhauser, associate professor of journalism at Ole Miss.

Dr. Windhauser recently conducted a random sample telephone survey that is the first systematic study of statewide media usage in Mississippi. The study was commissioned and published by the Mississippi Press Association.

"Most Mississippians relied heavily on newspapers for the most helpful information about shopping," Dr. Windhauser reported. "No other medium came close."

Newspapers most often offer shopping information about real estate (82.8 percent), groceries (81.5 percent), drugstore items (72.9 percent), entertainment and things to do in the community (71 percent) and women's and men's clothing and shoes (68.1 percent).

They listed a number of other goods and services for which they used newspapers as the source of shopping information.

Mississippians also rely on newspapers for local news.

"Television was the preference for Mississippi, national and international news," Dr. Windhauser said, "and I think that is because television packages its news in a more understandable way."

He said that television was preferred as a source by 47 percent of respondents for Mississippi news, 55 percent for national news and 66 percent for international news.

However, respondents indicated that newspapers are the main source for local news (38.8 percent), social and club news (40 percent) and local sports news (28 percent).

When Mississippians were asked about specific readership of 20 content topics, they indicated that the most widely read subjects were front-page news (97.9 percent), Mississippi news (91.4 percent), national news (87.1 percent), and local government news (79.7 percent).

They also showed high readership for editorial-page items (70.8 percent), advertisements (69.7 percent), letters to the editor (64.2 percent) and school news (63.5 percent).

Shoppers, the free publications containing some news and mostly advertising, did not do well in the survey. Only 25 percent of the respondents said they received shoppers; less than one-third of that group (30 percent) read the shoppers, but not a large amount.

Dr. Windhauser said he was surprised that newspapers did so well in competition with broadcasting, but pointed out that newspapers saturate the state more completely than does television. Less than half of Mississippians (48.3 percent) have cable television, and in many areas if there is no cable there is no television reception, he said.

Even so, he warned, newspapers will need to improve if they want to keep their competitive edge over television and radio broadcasting.

"If newspapers in Mississippi are to maintain their advantage in shopping information, then they must make stronger, immediate efforts to improve local, state and national news coverage," he said.

Other areas the researchers are making in the news area will increase significantly when they package shopping information in a more helpful way for consumers." He said that broadcasters currently don't compete for news in local areas, thus they aren't taking advantage of their potential audience.

Mississippians use broadcast media heavily on a regular basis, the study showed, though they usually are involved in other activities when they listen to radio or watch television. Nearly three-fourths (73.3 percent) of respondents had listened to radio in the last week, and 88 percent had listened in the last 24 hours. Slightly more than three-fourths (78.1 percent) of respondents had watched television in the last week, and 95 percent had watched in the last 24 hours. About 60 percent of survey participants listened to radio news daily and 74 percent watched television daily.

Newspapers can be surveyed to prove to potential advertisers that their advertisements will be read and used by readers, Dr. Windhauser said, and to change their papers to meet the needs of their audiences. Broadcasters can benefit by becoming more aggressive in local news coverage.

Mark Barden and Tim Miner, graduate research assistants, were co-authors of the study.

Extended unemployment payments curtailed

Mississippi will end its participation in the Extended Benefits Program when benefits are paid to program participants for unemployment during the week ending August 15, according to O.H. Simmons, executive director of the Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

The Extended Benefits Program, provides for a maximum of 13 additional weeks of benefits to unemployed persons who have exhausted their regular unemployment benefits.

Approximately 3,000 Mississippians are currently receiving payments under the program.

The state entered an extended benefits period last summer, with first payments made to eligible claimants for the week ending July 19, 1980.

In order for a state to "trigger into" the program, which is partially funded by the federal government and partially funded by the state, two conditions must be met: The insured unemployment rate in the state must be four percent or more; and that rate must be 120 percent higher than it was during the same years.

A minimum of 13 weeks must elapse before the state could once again "trigger on," and resume participation in the Extended Benefits Program.

The last payments for the extended benefits period just ended will be made for the week ending August 15. No extended benefits can be paid in Mississippi after that date.

Heat prompts Bay board to shorten school day

By WAYNE DUCOME JR.
Facing the first two weeks of the 1981-1982 school year, Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District students will find classes around lunchtime.

Due to constant high temperatures the district's Board of Education Monday night approved a recommendation by J.D. McCullough, superintendent of education, to end classes daily at 1:30 p.m. for elementary students and 2:30 p.m. for junior and senior high school youths.

This upcoming school year, classes begin at Bay schools, which include Waveland Elementary, Aug. 18. McCullough said the short schedule represents a 50 percent school day which meets state regulations.

He explained the two dismissal times are necessary to allow school buses enough time to return from elementary routes.

Walter Turcotte, board president, suggested a day-to-day set short schedule, but Rogers James, North Bay Elementary principal, explained parents must be notified of a child's schedule several days in advance.

Regarding district bid openings, the board unanimously approved a

Organization and Andrews Wilkerson of the American Federation of Teachers' Bay St. Louis Local criticized the board for not completed the job for the upcoming school year.

Turcotte replied he never received a requested PTO financial statement.

Noonan replied, "It's none of your business anyway."

The board took under advisement a single $15,000 bid submitted by James Necaise, a Waveland electrician, for purchase and installation of 55 ceiling fans.

Necaise's bid included conduit wiring work also.

Fred Wagner of Bay St. Louis, project architect, said he could not recommend acceptance of the bid and explained Necaise "did not have a good price from his supplier" for the fans.

James recommended the school purchase the fans and bid out the installation work, but Wagner warned the installer could not be held responsible if a fan did not operate properly.

Wagner said he would negotiate with Necaise and report the result of his efforts at the next board meeting.

The architect also reported that Sauder Brothers of Biloxi was low bidder for roofing North Bay.

clashes.

In other business at the 7:30 p.m. regular meeting at the superintendent's Bay Senior High School office, the board:

—Accepted the resignation of Teacher Stephanie Robinson. The teacher is moving from this area.

—Accepted McCullough's recommendations to hire Marsha Bourgeois as a Waveland Elementary speech therapist, Mary Lou Koch as a senior high English and Journalism teacher, Anita Jacobs as a North Bay teacher, Mary McGinnity as an aid for the handicapped program, and Gale L. McRaney as a new assistant senior high football coach.

—Accepted McCullough's recommendations for school bus drivers for the 1981-1982 school year.

—Accepted McCullough's recommendation to send two district representatives to the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools' Dec. 6-9 meeting in Dallas, Tex.

—Heard a report from McCullough urging the trustees' attendance at an Aug. 17 staff and faculty meeting.

—Heard a report from McCullough that the district's summer maintenance program is almost completed.

ASCS Report

WHEAT RESERVE LOAN

Legislation repealing an interest waiver on the 1981 crop wheat placed in the farmer-owned grain reserve has been passed, according to information received recently.

In the Pearl River-Hancock County Office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), this word came from Franklin A. Gemin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office.

The chairman said the bill also extends the date for conducting the 1981 wheat referendum from August 1 until August 15.

Gemin went on to say that Secretary of Agriculture Block has also announced that effective July 24 farmers who place their 1981-crop wheat under Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) loan may enter the wheat immediately into the reserve.

Producers placing the wheat in the reserve may receive annual storage payments of 25-34 cents per bushel, payable in advance.

Interest will be charged on the loan the first year wheat is in the reserve but interest will be waived during the second and subsequent years of the reserve loan program. The current CCC loan interest rate is 14.5 percent.

Under this program, farmers agree to keep their wheat in reserve until the national 5-day moving average market price for wheat is at or above the reserve trigger release level of $4.55 per bushel, or until the 2-year reserve loan matures. When the release level is triggered, farmers may take their grain out of the reserve without penalty.

If the market price continues above the trigger release level after the initial release period (the remainder of the month in which release is triggered plus one additional month), farmers will stop earning storage payment.

NORTH BAY IMPROVEMENTS—Explaining plans for North Bay Elementary School roofing and fan installation projects is Fred Wagner, planning a Bay St. Louis architect, at a Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees' meeting. Participating in discussion are, from left,

Regarding ceiling fan installation planned at North Bay classrooms, Lana Noonan of the school's Parent-Teacher

The $1,300 low bid was accepted by the board.

Wagner noted the project will be funded by the State Educational Finance Commission.

He also reported the roofing industry will no longer provide a "unqualified guarantee" unless a roof is a "level-bultrap" roof.

Wagner said the project will be completed before October or November and high noise producing work will be coordinated to avoid interference with

Supervisors ax funding requests

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Several funding requests offered at a Hancock County Board of Supervisors' Federal Revenue Sharing hearing Monday morning were not approved or determined not eligible for federal support by county officials.

Geraldine Lang of Bay St. Louis, Hancock County Concerned Citizens' president, presented the board a petition signed by 78 registered voters requesting funds to establish a summer youth employment program, resurface State Street and construct a civic center.

James Travira, District Five

supervisor, again informed Lang the City of Bay St. Louis must first install a drainage system on State Street before the thoroughfare can be paved.

The supervisor offered the same report at a hearing last week. He also again said Mayor Larry Bennett of Bay St. Louis would be contacted regarding the matter.

Lang's other two requests received no comments as the petition was accepted for recording in board's minutes.

Attending the meeting with Lang were Rev. A.A. Theriault, St. Augustine

Seminary director, Rev. Bernard Keller, St. Rose's de la Immaculate Church pastor, Genevieve Daniels and Mary Peterson, all of Bay St. Louis.

Dr. Joel Tate, a Gulfport dentist, also appeared at the hearing to request funding for People of Mississippi, which he said provides low cost or free dental care for the poor and teaches dental skills.

The dentist submitted a $120,000 funding request.

But A. A. (Dolph) Keller, board president, and Walter Gex, board attorney, informed Tate that legislative action is necessary for the supervisors to fund a non-profit organization.

In other business at the 9 a.m. special meeting in the supervisors' meeting room at the Bay St. Louis Courthouse, the board:

—Authorized bid advertisement for a photocopy machine for the circuit clerk's office;

—Authorized the State Highway Department to place appropriate signs at all railroad crossings;

—Authorized Gex to write a letter to Louisville and Nashville Railroad officials inquiring if the company is parking bank cars with "dangerous chemicals" in the county;

—Authorized Gex to write a letter to the Jordan River Shores Property Owners Association and the Bay St. Louis Jaycees informing the organizations that a hearing is necessary for the groups to receive property tax exemptions. The association requested an exemption for its club house on Hwy. 603 south of Kiln and the Jaycees are seeking an exemption for its building on St. John Street in Bay St. Louis;

—Authorized Gex to write a letter to J.T. Newkirk of the Catahoula Community to clarify the location of some property. Sam Pernicaro, District Four supervisor, said an approved parcel of land donated for a baseball park is not suitable for such a facility;

—Approved withdrawing a dual assessment levied against United Gas Pipeline Co.;

—Approved a notary bond for Kelvin Schulz of Bay St. Louis; —Conducted a moment of silent prayer for the late Asa Peterson, father of Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson;

—Heard a report from Edward Murtagh, assessor-tax collector, that new vehicle license plates will be issued and the county has received numerous compliments for its reappraisal program progress;

—Heard a report from Jeff Taylor, Gulf Regional Planning Commission's Hancock coordinator, that a proposed Hancock General Hospital parking area will also serve the County Health Department, federal funds requested for a Washington Street Park in Bay St. Louis are frozen, and the County Jail is receiving good funding for minor improvements;

—Heard a request from Talbot Steel of the Diamondhead Community requesting the Courthouse offices remain open from noon to 1 p.m. weekdays;

—Heard a report from Keller that Mike Ladner, veterans services officer, is "doing a tremendous job" handling some $3 million in benefits for county residents.

VOTER PETITION—Submitting a petition at a Monday Hancock County Board of Supervisors' special budget meeting requesting Federal Revenue Sharing funds for street paving, a youth summer employment program and construction of a civic center is Geraldine Lang of Bay St. Louis, Hancock County Concerned Citizens president. Also participating in the structed to hold back the soil supporting the building's foundation.

"The Seabees will have to recruit trainees skilled in that type of construction before work can begin," he said.

"That's a different type of worker than they had scheduled before," he added.

Recently the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland teamed together to haul two truckloads of railroad ties needed for the bulkhead.

In addition, Bay St. Louis also transported some eight or nine truckloads of fill from the old Industrial Ready Mix site in Bay St. Louis to the pound.

Hancock County, Waveland, and Bay St. Louis have all donated $5,000 for the construction. All materials at this time have been donated to the commission. Coast Electric also has agreed to donate six utility poles to the site.

Dumestre said the poles would be used to brace the railroad ties.

In addition to the railroad ties and fill, a small building was transported to the site by Sam Pernicaro, District Four supervisor.

Other materials to be incorporated into the building are being stored there. Dumestre said all the plumbing materials, including a bathtub, basin and toilet, have been donated and are stored in the building.

He said the bathtub will be used to dip animals to prevent ticks and lice and mange.

The pound was designed by architects from Coast Electric. Dumestre said the architects, a local veterinarian, and the commission, all agreed that the plan is the best plan for the money and will be capable of handling the needs of the county, Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

The building will be constructed of cement blocks on part of a 600 foot by 75 foot lot located just off Webb Street. The area was donated by Bay St. Louis.

Six pens will be able to contain and separate large dogs from smaller dogs and puppies.

All the animals will have access from a protected area in the shelter to a outside fenced area located on a cement slab.

Above the kennels inside the building, a series of cages will also be constructed to separate cats from dogs and sick animals from one another.

Storage space, a reception desk, and table to examine the animals are also included in the plan.

Currently Bay St. Louis has had to close down the former shelter located on Third Street in Bay St. Louis.

That action came after an inspection from an official from the Harrison County Animal Shelter revealed all the animals either diseased or exposed to disease.

Some 43 animals were killed at that time.

In addition, Alcan Cable Company, owners of the property which housed that animal shelter, has informed Bay St. Louis officials they will reclaim the site by Sept. 7, and the pound must be abandoned.

In the meantime, Sandra Koenen, director of the Harrison County Shelter, said her agency is accepting stray and diseased animals from the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland at no charge.

She said the board of directors of the Harrison County Shelter meets Aug. 17 and hopes at that time to work out with representatives of both cities an equitable and fair fee for handling their animals until the new shelter can be put into operation.

Koenen said if an owned animal is brought to Harrison County by Bay St. Louis or Waveland dogcatchers, those animals may be redeemed by the owners for a flat $10 reclaiming fee.

"That's how much it costs us to bring an animal into the front door here no matter how long it may stay with us," she explained.

"And that fee is based on 1978 operating costs," she added.

The Harrison humanitarian noted the fee for "quarantining" an owner's animal which has bitten a human is $15.

State law requires an animal which has bitten someone be quarantined for ten days to be sure it is not rabid, she said, noting veterinarians and doctors recommend 14 days, however.

"And that's what we also recommend," she said.

Koenen pointed out state law does not require quarantine by an agency or pound in such cases.

"The animal may be quarantined by the owner in a secure place," she stated.

NEIGHBORHOOD WATCH MEETING—Residents of the Leopold Street area met at the residence of the Officer's Saturday evening to hear John Montgomery, director of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Crime Commission, explain how Neighborhood Watch Programs can help citizens. Montgomery and Bay Investigator Matt Karl told how neighbors can help each other in protecting their properties. Any group needing help in starting a neighborhood watch program can contact Montgomery who said his organization is willing to make available a presentation like the one to the Leopold residents. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

MOVING WRECKAGE—Removing two automobiles late Monday afternoon involved in a collision in the eastbound lanes of US-90 just west of the BaySide Park intersection are trucks and employees of Dave's Wrecker Service and Sam and Son Wrecker Service. Tony Greer of the Mississippi Highway Patrol reported at the accident scene that John D. Pepperman, 65, of Grosvenor Place in Waveland was charged with following to close after his automobile, left, rear-ended another car driven by James Ferry, 39, of St. Joseph Street in Waveland. Pepperman was treated at the scene by Mobile Medical for cuts on his forehead and cheek. Pepperman's three grandchildren riding with him and Ferry apparently were not injured. I'm sitting here in the driveway of an August afternoon, trying to make up my mind as to whether I'm hungrier for a ripe, sun-warmed peach to eat out of hand or for a chilled peach to slice over a bowl of ice cream or...or...

There are so many ways I like peaches, at all hours of the day or evening. I often grill halved peaches, butter-dotted, as an accompaniment to broiled chicken or pork chops or ham. And I like to bake halved peaches along with chicken. There are so many, many ways to enjoy this luscious fruit, as dear to the ancient peoples of the earth as it is to us today. Peaches, known to ancient China and Persia, were brought to Europe, thence to the New World, by early Spanish explorers. Early French settlers planted peach trees in Louisiana, as did the English in Jamestown and the Massachusetts Bay Colony, and American Indians carried the seeds inland so that now peaches are a well-known delicacy to most of us. And I wonder just how many Peachtree Streets there are in the Peach state of Georgia? Of course, a prime favorite is old-fashioned peach cobbler or pie or such, but if you don't want to stay around the kitchen, here's...

Another elegant "quickie" — for each serving, peel a large, ripe peach and slice lengthwise. Place in a superb glass, pour two ounces of burgundy over, and serve immediately. And, if you want to go a little more trouble, peel and halve and pit, of course, the peach.

Deputy recovers property

By ELLIS CUEVAS
 Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson reports the recovery of two log skidders valued at $60,000 each was made Monday by Deputy Dennis Tartavouille.

Peterson said the equipment was parked along Hwy. 603 near Tawiki Park Road in North West Hancock County by Geophysical Services, Inc., Mandeville, La. The skidders, one a Ardco and the other a Trans Equipment model was found missing when workers returned Monday morning. The equipment was found on the Texas Flat Road about a mile and half from where it was parked, according to Peterson. Investigation of the case is in charge of the investigation. Peterson summarized that it was probably used for joy riding and no apparent damages were reported other than loss of working time.

Hancock Library to conduct folk art research program

Callers, basket weavers, storytellers, musicians, and other Hancock County area folk artists will be spotlighted in a week-long program at the Hancock County Library System, April, 1982.

During August and September, 1981, extensive research will be conducted in Hancock County to find folk artists and collect information about their work. The research will be supervised by Paula Tadlock, Folk Arts Program director at the Mississippi Arts Commission.

Two professional folklorists will conduct the research: Worth W. Long, a cultural historian from the Smithsonian Institution and Betty Belanus, a PhD candidate in folklore from Indiana University.

The information gathered from the field research will be used to design the residency program which will take place in April.

Developed by the Mississippi Arts Council in cooperation with the Mississippi Library Commission, the week-long residency will include the presentation of local folk artists—storytellers, craftspeople, musicians—in residence at the Bay St. Louis Library and in cooperative residencies with local schools; the scheduling of films and exhibits about Mississippi folk culture; and a concert with local folk musicians at the end of the residency week.

The purpose for the residency is to honor folk artists in their own communities, while identifying the local library as a cultural resource center.

"We are looking forward to participating in the Folk Artist Residency Program," said Prima Wusnick, director of the Hancock County Library System.

"Because little research on folk art has been done in our area, this is an excellent opportunity for providing a basis for continued study and activity. We hope people all along the Coast will participate in the program and enjoy the many folk art activities being planned."

This program was made possible through partial funding from the National Endowment for the Arts. For additional information, contact Prima Wusnick at the Bay St. Louis Library.

Diamondhead Utilities asks for 85 percent rate hike

By BRENT MACEY

A hearing on proposed 85 percent increases in water and sewer rates by Diamondhead Utilities Inc. is scheduled for Tuesday Aug. 25, at the Walter Sillers Building in Jackson, located across the street from the new capital building.

The utility company is requesting an average 85 percent increase for residential and commercial water rates, requesting residential sewer rates be quadrupled, and commercial sewer rates be increased three times.

E.W. Robinson, executive secretary for the Public Service Commission, said an application requesting the increases states "actual expenses have enormously increased" since current rates were established in 1973.

"Major expenditures have been and will be required to meet regulations of the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control," the application continues.

Wages and labor increases, materials and supplies, postage and electricity are also listed as showing substantial increases.

Robinson said the commission has employed a special rate consultant, employed a special attorney to help the PSC attorney, and directed staff members to look into the request submitted by the utility company in April of this year.

Their findings will be presented to the commission at the hearing. Both attorneys for the PSC and the Diamondhead Utility Inc. will be given the opportunity to cross examine witnesses and argue the request.

The current $1.15 residential rate for each 1,000 gallons of the first 3,000 gallons is raised to $2.20, under the company's proposal.

The company also asks a $1 charge for each additional 1,000 gallons for the next 2,000 gallons of water be raised to $1.35.

An 85, 65, and 80 cent residential rate per 1,000 gallons for the next three brackets above 3,000, 10,000 and 15,000 gallons is to be increased to $1.50, $1.25, and $.94, respectively, under the proposal.

A increase in residential rates per 1,000 gallons over 20,000 gallons is requested from 40 cents to 75 cents.

A minimum $.50 charge for residential water would be increased to $.60.

Flat residential sewer rates of $3.50 per month would be raised to $14.95 per month.

Flat commercial sewer rates of $7 per month would be increased to $22.50 per month.

A current commercial charge of $1 per 1,000 gallons for the first 10,000 gallons would be hiked to $1.55.

A current 70 cent charge per 1,000 gallons for the next 10,000 gallons of commercial water would be increased to $1.31.

Rates for the next 30,000 gallons above 20,000 gallons would be raised from 40 cents to 75 cents for each 1,000 gallons in that bracket.

Rates per 1,000 gallons for the additional 50,000 gallons above 50,000 gallons will increase from 38 cents to 71 cents, according to the proposal.

A current rate of 35 cents per 1,000 gallons over 100,000 gallons would increase to 65 cents.

A minimum commercial water rate of $10 would also increase to $18.50 per month.

Knights' Notes

Grand Knight Bob Hubbard has announced plans for a Communion Breakfast on the second Sunday of each month after 9 a.m. Mass at Our Lady of the Gulf Church.

Pleased with the large turnout at both a family Communion Mass and Continental Breakfast last Sunday, Hubbard stated that Pere LeDuc Council will continue to hold such events.

The breakfasts will offer the Knights, their families, and guests a opportunity to gather as a Catholic family after Mass.

The informal breakfasts will include coffee, french bread, doughnuts, and milk.

We invite you to our next Communion Mass and breakfast at a later date for the time of the next scheduled breakfast.

At the Communion Mass held this past Sunday, the Knights and their families heard Father James Russell, the newly appointed principal of the Bay Catholic School System, speak of the importance of Catholic education in the family and community.

Father Russell, who is a former principal of Notre Dame in Biloxi, a chaplain at Keesler Air Force Base, and currently moderator of the Biloxi Evening television program, "Faith of Our Fathers," asked parishioners for their continued support and assistance to the school system.

The Pere LeDuc Council joins Father Russell in his promotion and belief in Catholic education. We welcome Father Russell to Bay St. Louis and wish him success in his endeavors with the Bay Catholic School System.

There will be a meeting of the Knights of Columbus Monday night at 8 p.m.

Civilian jobs available at Keesler in October

More than 100 new civilian jobs will become available here at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi in fiscal year 1963 as part of an Air Force-wide, military-to-civilian conversion program designed to cut training and recruiting costs.

An additional 50 military positions will be converted in fiscal '63. Fiscal year '62 runs from Oct. 1, 1961, through Sept. 30, 1962.

More than 20 different types of jobs will be affected, with administration, personnel and supply undergoing the most conversions.

According to Ancel J. Taylor, Keesler's civilian personnel officer, some skilled wage grade positions such as refrigeration and air conditioning repair will also be available.

Taylor stressed that these positions will be filled throughout the fiscal year through standard hiring procedures.

"We will identify the needed skills to the Office of Personnel Management (formerly the Civil Service Commission) in Jackson," said Taylor.

"They, in turn, will notify the state employment agencies. Local applicants should submit their applications to the state agencies. The office in Jackson sends us the names of the top five applicants, whom we will call in for interviews."

The conversions were directed by Headquarters Air Force, said Maj. John Dewey, 3314th Management Engineering Squadron, Detachment 2 commander.

"Those jobs to be converted on Keesler were identified during a base level assessment exercise, performed completely on paper. This exercise showed those jobs that would not be needed to support various overseas wartime scenarios."

The 3314th conducted the exercise on Keesler.

Jobs which have mobility requirements and those which are primarily overseas were not tasked for the conversion; neither were critical military skills, such as commanders, first sergeants, security police and nurses.

Hancock horses win three on 17-race program

(Special to The Sea Coast Echo)
PEARL RIVER, La.—Hancock County horsemen won three races Sunday on a 17-race program at Oak Downs and the three came bunched together.

Bayou Beacon, owned by Harlan Mauffray of Bay St. Louis and trained by C.J. Hoda, was a mild upset winner in the five-furlong third against Ebony Idol.

Bayou Beacon, ridden by Leo Fricke, was clocked in 1:05.36, while Ebony Idol, a winner the previous week, recorded a time of 1:06.36.

In the following race, a three-furlong test, Suba Duba turned back Suse, Suba Duba, owned and trained by Roger Ladner of White Cypress, was timed in 37.63. Suse came in at 37.67.

The fifth race, another three-furlong contest, marked the third time a Hancock County horseman took to the winner's circle as Joyce Cuevas' Damned If I Know defeated two others.

But the race was a can't miss situation for Hancock County as all three horses entered were owned by Hancock horsemen. Finishing second was Kelly Necaise's April Flow and Curley Ladner's Conrad Joe was third.

A sparkling afternoon was enjoyed by jockey Leo Fricke of Piquette, Fricke rode seven winners, starting with a bang by winning the first three races. He then went on to win the fifth, ninth, 14th and 16th.

In the best performance of the day for the popular 350-yard distance, Little Chester was clocked in a top AA time of 1:18.25 in capturing the 15th

Cookie's Red Boy, a veteran campaigner at Oak Downs dating back to the mid-1970s, showed he still has some races left in him by winning the 350-yard 16th against Blaze.

Leonard-Hearns telecast tickets available in Bay

Tickets are now on sale at Lolascano's Health Club in Bay St. Louis for the live closed-circuit telecast of the Sugar Ray Leonard-Thomas Hearns World Welterweight Championship fight scheduled for Wednesday night, September 16.

The title bout, which will be shown at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum, will take place at specially constructed arena on the grounds of Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, Nev. The winner of the fight will be recognized as the undisputed welterweight champion; Leonard now holds the WBC crown, while Hearns is the current WBA title.

Tickets are available also at the Coliseum ticket office; Sears, Edgewater; Merchants Bank, Long Beach; Oberle's, Gulfport; Byrd's Music, Pascagoula; Beautiful Noise, North Biloxi; Beautiful Day, Hattiesburg, and The Factory Seafood Restaurant in Biloxi. Leonard, who carries a ring mark of 30-1, first gained national prominence when he captured the Gold Medal at the 1976 Olympics in Montreal. Three years later, he knocked out defending champion, Wilfred Benitez to capture the WBC welterweight crown. He lost the title to Roberto Duran in June, 1980, but scored an eighth-round TKO over Duran five months later to regain the championship.

In Hearns, Leonard will be facing the man experts consider the hardest puncher, pound-for-pound in boxing today. The "Motor City Cobra" has knocked out 30 opponents in winning all 32 of his fights. He gained the WBA crown with a second-round KO of Phipps Cuevas in August, 1980, and has successfully defended the title three times.

Tickets are priced at $25 and $20 for reserved seats on the coliseum floor, and $15 for terrace and balcony general admission.

The closed circuit telecast will be shown in color with black and white back up projector.

Coast Croquet Club slates first tourney

The first tournament of the Gulf Coast Croquet Club will open with eliminations this weekend at 706 N. Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis.

The tournament will be to determine the club's representative at national competition in New York City in September.

Play will start at 3 p.m. Saturday and the public is invited to watch.

Croquet has become one of the 'in' sports, according to an article by Marilyn Wellenmeyer in the May 18 issue of FORTUNE magazine. The Gulf Coast Croquet Club was organized this year in Bay St. Louis and is a member of the United States Croquet Association, which was founded five years ago.

There are more than 50 member clubs from 19 states. The National Championships will be held in Central Park, New York City Sept. 16 through 20.

Cattlemen's Rodeo slated in Columbia

Bull riding will be the featured event at the Cattlemen's Association Rodeo in Columbia Friday and Saturday.

"The rodeo will begin with a set of bucking bulls as the first event and another set as the last event," according to Paul Murray, president of the Marion County Cattlemen's Association.

Other events will include barback brace riding, little roping, bull riding, team roping, calf roping and barrel racing.

The rodeo will be held at the Livestock Showgrounds Arena on Hwy. 13 south of Columbia.

"The rodeo has been a big success since it began five years ago with outstanding support from Marion County and our friends from surrounding counties," according to Murray.

Sports network to cover State-Florida contest

Those big vans with the "ESPN" painted on the side usually mean a good omen for Mississippi State's football team.

In fact, the Bulldogs are 24 before the national audience which the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network draws for its tape-delayed accounts of leading college football contests.

ESPN is carried on Hancock Cable Channel 3.

Under the arrangement by DeBrock, Conn. group of the telecast of the MSU-Florida football contest on Sept. 24 in Jackson strikes a favorable chord.

Although re-broadcast times have not been determined, it will mark a "new" era for the two teams.

ESPN utilized a 24-hour live feed of the game as one of its first major broadcast efforts featuring the college grid.

State would like to see its first replay of the game this year since the 1977-78 season.

opens SEC play here on Sept. 19 against improved Vanderbilt.

And last fall the Bulldogs upended then-18th-ranked Miami (Fla.) in an offensive delight, 34-31, at the Orange Bowl on ESPN before downing LSU 55-34 in Jackson.

In this year's Sept. 24 ESPN telecast, the Bulldogs and Gators will be joining the Ohio State-Stanford, Miami (Fla.)-Texas, Indiana-Syracuse, and Arkansas-Mississippi games on the slate.

By the time that the games are broadcast the total viewing coverage for ESPN should be in excess of 11 million in 24 states via its satellite communications.

The PRC Wildcats 1981 season officially begins here Friday morning at 9 a.m. and according to coach J. C. Arban, the no-hows may be fewer than in the past.

At this time two out-of-staters and three sophomores have told Arban they would definitely not report to camp.

Our two starting linebackers, Sidney Peyton and David Dearman, called last week and said they're not coming back," Arban said.

"I'm sure we'll have some more players to decide against coming out," Arban said, "and maybe even some of those saying no at this time will change their minds. I'll stand on how we will be in pretty good shape."

Arban said his main concern at this time is getting enough depth in the offensive line. "We must have some freshman linemen come through quick for us," Arban said, "we really can't afford to lose any

The Wildcats' offensive backfield should be solid. Returning at quarterback is Oak Grove's Lance Larson. Larson led the Wildcats to three straight victories at the close of last season. "He is a very intelligent quarterback and a lot of football knowledge," Alban said. "He will definitely be our field general."

In the running back positions the Wildcats have experience, power and speed in a sophomore combination of Columbia's Donnie Lewis and Hollis Pavton and Crecella.

Other punters and kickers include Rusty Bounds, Ben Preston, Tony Smith, David Oakes and Chuck Bounds.

Two-a-day practices for the Wildcats begin Saturday morning and will last for about 10 days. The Wildcats' first home contest is Saturday, September 8 against Mississippi Delta.

Two Ohio sluggers join Wildcat lineup

Two Cincinnati, Ohio baseball players have agreed to transfer to Pearl River College to play their second year of college baseball.

Ned Eades, the head coach here at PRC, said Todd Bodnar will transfer from Ashland College in Ashland, Ohio and Matt Jones will transfer from the University of Southern Mississippi to Pearl River this fall and will join the baseball Wildcats.

Bodnar, a left fielder and Jones, a third baseman and shortstop have been playing baseball all summer in a college league in Cincinnati.

Bodnar is the league's third best batter at .340 and Jones is in first place batting .380.

"This should just about wrap up the commitments I'll be getting," said Eades, who has just completed his second full month as head manager of the baseball Wildcats. Eades has the commitments of 20 outstanding players.

Eades said his spring schedule now includes 39 games, however, he is planning on scheduling another seven to 10 contests.

For the first time in history the Wildcats will also have a fall practice which includes several practice games with USM, Belhaven and William Carey.

"We begin practice August 31 and will probably go through the first week in October," Eades said.

"I intend on keeping these players busy so they won't get out of shape," said Eades, "the more we do this fall the better we'll be next spring."

Eades said he intends on enclosing the outfield with four by eight foot advertisement on the chain link fence. So far Eades reports selling 23 of the 50 positions open to businesses.

Eades has spent much of his spare time this summer getting the Wildcat baseball diamond into shape. "The infield is really looking great," Eades said, "think people will really be impressed when they see what we have here at Pearl River College."

Eades said he intends on enclosing the outfield with four by eight foot advertisement on the chain link fence. So far Eades reports selling 23 of the 50 positions open to businesses.

Meridian woman shares dangle doll happiness with Bay children

The Sea Coast Echo Youth Section

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Many Meridian residents know her as Miss Sadie, an elderly but energetic woman who operated a children's play school for some 50 years.

Some Bay St. Louis children were recently entertained by Miss Sadie in her portrayal of characters which range from the menacing giant in "Jack and the Beanstalk" to the frail heroine "Little Red Riding Hood."

Such a diversity of characters might be quite challenging for an actress, but she has mastered all of these rolls with the aid of her invention called "dangle dolls" and a variety of voices she has developed over the years.

Sadie Kendall Knight, almost 75-years-old, travelled here by bus to perform at City-County Library at the request of her former student, Becky Mitchum, who is children's librarian at the Bay facility.

The dangle dolls are similar to marionettes, but are suspended by a single stove pipe wire.

Miss Sadie said "many years ago" she'd perform utilizing marionettes, but they would tangle frequently.

She also tried hand puppets, but Miss Sadie explained, "You can't do very much dramatizing and character interplay with hand puppets."

So Miss Sadie developed her dangle dolls which are as lent to children as "puppet toys" after a performance.

The dangle dolls are hand-crafted by Miss Sadie, former students or interested artists. She teaches them to make their puppet toys by first creating a head with an aluminum foil ball and sculps "Reple-Cath" clay for faces, then shapes a torso and limbs with wire and cloth to give the character flexibility and movement.

When asked if she owns a patent on her puppet construction technique, Miss Sadie replied, "In your old age it's nice to have something to share to make others happy."

She does indeed share her creation with teachers and students, and is promoting the establishment of dangle doll "lending libraries" throughout Mississippi to aid community performances organized by local puppeteers.

Miss Sadie is also in the process of writing her dangle doll manufacturing process and performance techniques for recording by the State Department of Archives and History.

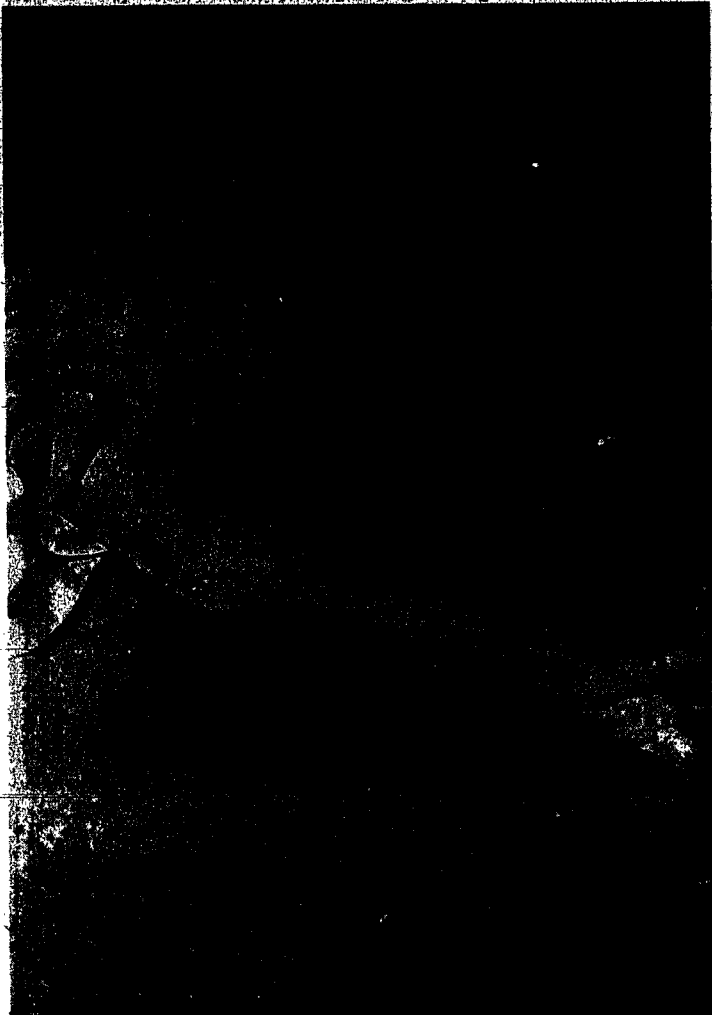

Although she has performed for many years with her dangle dolls, Miss Sadie is devoted to improving every performance to add a little more joy and fantasy to children's lives.

Miss Sadie offers a vignette including two of 'The Three Little Pigs'

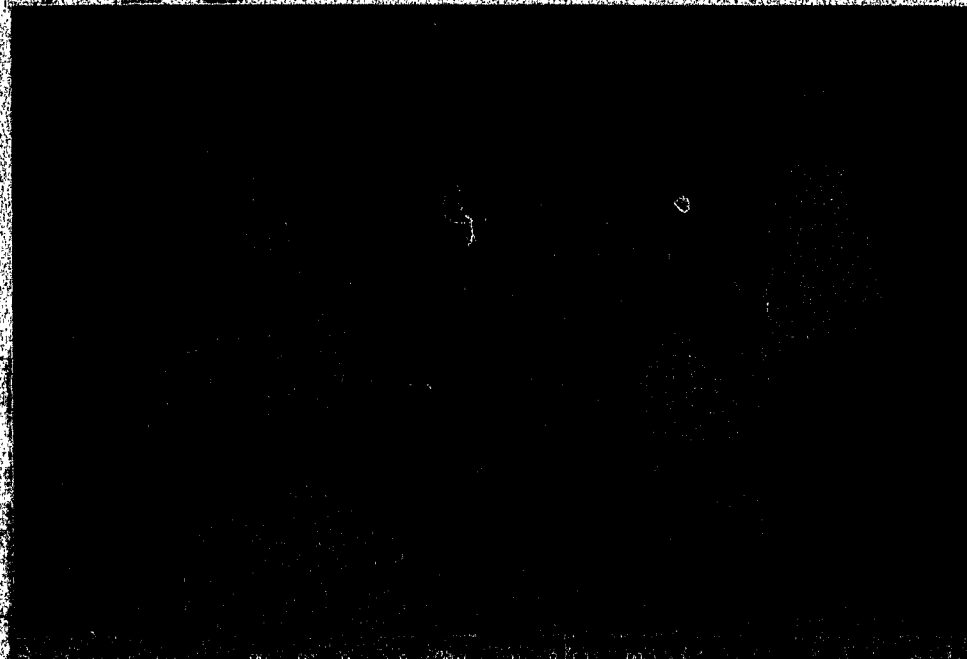

Children at City-County Library are spellbound by a 'Jack and the Beanstalk' performance.

Librarian Sylvia Sonier, right, of Bay St. Louis assists Sadie in her performance.

Youths gather at City-County Library for a dangle doll show.

Miss Sadie, who performs with her dangle dolls, is a former student of the City-County Library.

The tender drama is the story of Amanda Wingfield, a faded, tragic remnant of Southern gentility who lives in poverty in a dingy St. Louis apartment with her son Tom and crippled daughter Laura. Laura's defect, intensified by her mother's anxiety to see her married, has driven her more and more into herself, so she creates her own world of little glass animals.

Quincey series consultant to staff forensic workshop

A medical forensic sculptor who has been a consultant with the "Quincey" television series will be among the instructors at a two-day workshop on forensic identification sponsored by William Carey College's Division of Continuing Education August 31 and Sept. 1 at the Ramada Inn, Long Beach.

The workshop staff consists of five nationally recognized forensic specialists, including Betty Pat Gatliff, who has worked with the "Quincey" series.

Ms. Gatliff, an expert in the technique of facial reconstruction of skull for identification, has also been a consultant for major U.S. police agencies, the Smithsonian Institute, the National Geographic Society, and Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

Other instructors are Dr. Sigurd Krohl, professor and chairman of the Department of Oral Pathology and Oral Radiology at the University of Mississippi School of Dentistry; Edgar Little, Harrison County coronor and chief investigator for the Harrison County Sheriff's Department; Dr. Edward M. Rehak, director of laboratories at Gulf Coast Community Hospital, Biloxi; and Dr. Clyde Snow, a forensic anthropologist who has written numerous articles on the subject.

These five specialists will lead workshop participants through the entire process of identifying human remains. Besides facial reconstruction, participants will study the role of the coroner or police investigator; techniques of recovering skeletal remains; the role of the forensic pathologist, odontologist, and anthropologist; positive identification; and presentation of evidence.

The workshop begins at 8 a.m. August 31 and will meet until about 4 p.m. each day.

Certificates of attendance and Continuing Education Credits (CEUs) will be awarded by the Division of Continuing Education, William Carey College.

Qualified students may also earn two semester hours college credit for this workshop. Cost is $100 for students who do not wish to earn regular college credit, and $150 for credit students.

Students should enroll by August 15. Motel reservations should be made by contacting Ramada Inn, Long Beach, directly.

River plans Rodeo Club

Pearl River College will offer an organization this fall for students who are interested in more than just wearing cowboy boots and hats.

For the first time ever Pearl River will have an official Rodeo Club on the Poplarville campus.

Miller Hammill, dean of student affairs, said the new organization has been added as another extra-curricular activity for student participation. "A lot of interest has been shown in the sport of rodeo," said Hammill, "and that's the reason we are offering this new organization."

The new Pearl River College Rodeo Club will be affiliated with and will abide by rules and by-laws of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association and rules and regulations of Pearl River

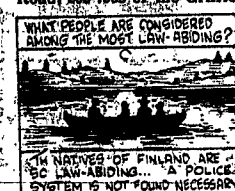

College. Membership is open to all men and women students enrolled full time at PRC. The main purpose is to promote college rodeo at PRC and throughout Mississippi. All members will be encouraged to compete in rodeo competition with other college rodeo clubs.

Hammill said the club will meet twice a month during the regular school year with additional meetings at the discretion of the president or faculty advisor.

"We will not offer scholarships," Hammill said, "however, several organizations within the PRC district have indicated they would be interested in aiding students joining the new organization."

For information contact Hammill at 795-4558.

KERRA ANN LADNER, 4-year-old daughter of Reggie and Karen Ladner of Standard Community, is listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit of University Medical Center in Jackson following a four-hour operation Tuesday morning for removal of a malignant brain tumor. Relatives in Hancock County this week reported doctors were successful in removing three-quarters of the growth. A trust fund to assist the family with medical bills has been established in Kerra's name at Hancock Bank. She is brother of Ritchie Ladner, 1; granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Griffith Shiyon of Standard; Mrs. Shirley Smith of Long Beach; and Ed Ladner of Ladner Town; and great-granddaughter of Edvon Ladner and Mrs. Emma Necaise, both of Ladner Town. For information on contributing to the trust fund, call the Cuevas Grocery on Vidalia Road, 255-7933, or the Griffith Shiyon residence, 255-7144.

PRC registration times announced

Sophomores attending Pearl River College's 1981 fall semester will register according to a published alphabetical listing beginning at 8 a.m. Tuesday, August 25. The sophomore registration will be completed by noon that Tuesday, and all freshmen, transfer and former students will begin their registration at 1 p.m. that same day and will finish up Wednesday, August 26.

"Registration is a very important aspect of getting off to a good year," said Dr. Willis Lott, director of admissions at PRC. "This is why it's necessary we have a registration schedule to insure an orderly and fair registration system."

Registration times are listed and a student can determine their registration time by finding their classification (freshman, transfer or sophomore) and by using the first letter of their last name.

"We realize many of our students work and or commute with other students," Dr. Lott said, "however, we will not be able to accommodate students who wish to register early." Lott said a student may register after his or her appointed time but not prior to the scheduled time.

An orientation and testing session for all freshmen and incoming transfer students will be held at 8:30 a.m. Monday, August 24 in the PRC Coliseum. The orientation session is required for these students," Dr. Lott said, "no freshman or transfer student will be allowed to register without orientation."

The orientation session will be used to set up basic studies in English, reading and mathematics. All students will be tested before registering. Dr. Lott said, "this will help us determine if the student needs to register for remedial classes."

The remedial classes in English, reading and math are designed to help the incoming students gain the necessary proficiency levels for college freshmen. These courses enables the student to catch up if needed," Lott said.

Registration will be held in the Academic Building. All students are urged to bring a pencil to registration.

Commuter buses which service all points from within the six-county supporting district will run regular routes during the orientation session and days of registration.

Registration will close at 2 p.m. Wednesday, August 26 and late registration will
